

In addition, John reflected on the dangers of living with ignorant simpletons. For instance, he witnessed Omar 1 open the toilet area curtain after wiping himself and leave without washing his hands. Orozco 1 likewise did not wash his hands—or even rinse them—after urinating. Andrés 8 said those two were not the only ones; several other pedophiles were ignorant and had filthy toileting habits that could potentially affect others adversely. Orozco 1 and others also bent down and sucked water directly from the faucets in either of the two sinks, for whatever reason. It was no joy for John to use the same faucet to wash dishes or brush his teeth directly afterwards. The Chilean state and gendarmería certainly held some responsibility for exposing John and others with normal and polite bathroom hygiene to the filthy habits of ignorant and degenerate men. Was it any wonder that John was often sick?
